Dear Mr. Grovermann:-

May I have a word from you as to the way our Peace Medal has sold in Washington? My inquiry is designed to guard against the supply of medals which were sent you, having become exhausted.

Very respectfully yours,

Secretary..

Dear Sir:--

In reply to yours of the 17th I have the Peace Medals on display in the window and still continue to make the display very attractive but up to the present writing there have only two of them been disposed of. I distributed the printed circulars to all the officials of Washington but they do not seem to respond very liberally. Shall we retain them longer?

Yours very truly,

BERRY & WHITMORE CO.,

Dear Mr. Grovermann:-

I have your letter of the 18th, and I am sorry that the sale of the Peace Medals has not proved more satisfactory for you. I do not feel that the possibilities are absolutely exhausted, and I would suggest ~~that~~ if you concur, that four of the eight ~~medals~~ medals remaining in your hands be returned to us, and that you hold the remainder for several weeks longer.

I fear the interest in the Peace Medal has waned by the time the peace had arrived.

Very respectfully yours..

Secretary..

Dear Mr. Grovermann:-

Referring to my letter of July 21st, I am writing to say that if you forwarded the four bronze medals as suggested, therein, they have not been received and therefore would appreciate it if you would put a tracer on them.

Very respectfully yours,

Secretary.

Dear Sir:

The Red Cross Society Headquarters in Washington have received about twelve fine gold medals presented by the foreign countries, and as they are establishing a museum, they do not want to have these medals exposed to public view as they are very valuable.

They would like to have replicas made of these medals of some base metal or plaster of paris bronze finished. We thought you might give us information as to where we might have this done, either thru us or the Red Cross themselves.

Any information will be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Berry & Whitmore Co.

Dear Sirs:-

Your letter of October 10th has just been received along with a letter from Mr. Givenwilson, the Curator of the Red Cross Museum, asking practically the same question. I have replied suggesting that he have electrotypes made of the medals giving him the name of the Medallie Art Company of New York as a firm well equipped to do this kind of work inexpensively. Perhaps you may have some one in Washington fitted to do such work. If so it would save the sending of the medals, but I can think of no other form of reproduction which would be satisfactory.

Very truly yours,

Secretary.
